

Servo motors can be used in the following:

- Automatic Door Openers: Supermarkets and hospitals for example use automated doors where micro servos are needed.
- Robotic Vehicles: Such as the ones used in military equipment such as bomb detonations.
- Robotics: A servo motor at every "joint" of a robot is used to actuate movements, giving the robot arm its precise angle. This is important because a robot has to have the exact bearings in order to accurately perform.